Transitions Project leads to Enhanced Membership Feature

As you read in the previous WFW newsletter or heard at the Annual Meeting, WFW has launched a new membership benefit: The Transitions Project. This is an opportunity for WFW members to support each other and draw on each other's wisdom and expertise. When you are going through a life transition, the Member Connect feature of the WFW web site will enable you to find another member who has been down the road you're traveling, and is willing to talk with you about it on a confidential basis.

In order to implement The Transitions Project, we need members to sign up to be a resource for other members. At the Annual Meeting many members signed up. If you were not able to attend the Annual Meeting, please sign up through our web site. On our website, click on To Update Your Member Profile, then Edit Your Interests. At the bottom of this section you can check off any transitions you would like to volunteer for.

To locate someone who has volunteered, go to the WFW website, then to Membership, then to Member Connect. Scroll down to the Mentor section, check the transition you want, and then Submit. This will bring up the names of members who have volunteered to mentor that transition. Select one or more members, and give them a call. Please indicate you connected to them through the WFW Transitions Project.

All communications between volunteers and those seeking their assistance is strictly on a confidential basis.

This Project was developed under the leadership of Sarah Nolan and Barbara Creed, and integrated into our web site by Denise Brosseau.
